

Call for Submissions
Join us for the 3rd Meeting of the German Political Psychology
Network on March 10th and 11th 2022

Political Psychology is a growing field of research at the intersection between Psychology, Political Science, Sociology, Communication Science, and other disciplines. The first meetings of the German Political Psychology Network were held at the FernUniversität in Hagen (2020) and at Friedrich-Schiller University Jena (2021). This network connects an interdisciplinary group of scientists from Germany and beyond.

We invite you to the third meeting of the German Political Psychology Network, to be held as a hybrid meeting on March 10th (afternoon) and March 11th (morning) 2022. This meeting is being organized by a group of researchers from the Chemnitz University of Technology. There will be no participation fee.

The conference will take place in hybrid format: presentation sessions will be conducted either in person at Chemnitz University of Technology or online via Zoom; poster sessions will be conducted fully online via GatherTown. Please note that due to COVID safety considerations, some participants may be asked to present online rather than in person.

We want to bring together researchers in the field of Political Psychology for a scientific meeting that aims at

- exchanging research ideas,
- developing collaborations and
- discussing hot topics.

Researchers in all stages of their career are invited to participate and present. We especially encourage contributions from those with backgrounds typically underrepresented in the sciences.

Previous meetings have included topics such as ideology, political/social movements, the role of emotions in politics, ethnicity, gender, identity, political violence, voting behavior, misinformation and “fake news”, public opinion, leadership, and radicalization, but all topics related to political psychology are welcome.

We call for submissions from all areas of Political Psychology in the following categories:

- a) Individual presentations. This category is open to diverse kinds of stand-alone presentations, including completed research, works in progress, and research proposals.
- b) Research panels including 3-5 research presentations on a common topic, phenomenon or theory from political psychology. Panels should be planned as entirely on-site or online.
- c) Poster presentations communicating the methods, results, and conclusions of research in a concise and interesting way. Poster sessions will be made available online using Gathertown and can be viewed by both online and in-person attendees.

Please submit your proposals online via <https://forms.gle/G9VtvvsRYd6jMpHH7> by December 15, 2021. Check out our website for more information about the conference. If you have any questions feel free to contact us via email.

Local organizing team at the Chemnitz University of Technology: Frank Asbrock, Aaron Bielejewski, Rowenia Bender, Deliah Bolesta, Sarah Buhl, Jennifer Führer, Natalie Hartig, Sarah Hennecke, Annemarie Juchler, Vera Kaiser, Mustafa Gokcan Kosen, Arndt Leininger, Anne Markstein, Klara Steinmetz.

Network organizing team: Jolanda van der Noll (FernUniversität in Hagen), Kathrin Ackermann (Universität Heidelberg), Flávio Azevedo (FSU Jena) and Frank Asbrock (Chemnitz University of Technology).

Political Psychology Network DE | Mailing List | Twitter